2013: Building Community in Tough Times

Visioning and planning for the Bountiful Byway is being carried out by the Extension Thurston County. The Bountiful Byway is a planned 100-mile trail that will include roads throughout the county and will connect to other trails throughout the state. The project is being led by the Thurston Council for Children and Youth (TCCY) and will be supported by a grant from the state Department of Fish and Wildlife (DFW).

The Bountiful Byway project is being funded through a grant from the state Department of Fish and Wildlife (DFW). The grant will provide funding for the development of a trail plan, which will include identifying potential trail routes, assessing the feasibility of the project, and developing a plan for implementing the trail.

The project is expected to take several years to complete, with construction of the trail expected to begin in 2014. The trail will be a mix of paved and dirt roads, and will be open to the public for hiking, biking, and other outdoor activities.

In addition to the grant from DFW, the Bountiful Byway project is also supported by a grant from the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The DNR grant will provide funding for the development of a trail map and guidebook, which will be available to the public.

The Bountiful Byway project is expected to benefit the local economy by increasing tourism and attracting visitors to the area. The project is also expected to benefit the environment by promoting the use of non-motorized transportation and reducing the use of motorized vehicles. The project is also expected to benefit the community by providing a new place for people to get active and enjoy the outdoors.

In addition to the Bountiful Byway project, the TCCY is also working on other initiatives to improve the community. The TCCY is working to improve the quality of life for children and youth in the county by improving the availability of health care, reducing the incidence of child abuse, and improving the overall well-being of children.

The TCCY is a countywide Collective Impact Initiative that is working to improve the lives of children and youth in the county. The TCCY is made up of a group of community members who are working together to improve the lives of children and youth in the county.
