  - A. The County's compliance section began in 2002.
  - B. There are 3.5 FTE employees
  - C. Complaint driven
  - D. There are about 840 open cases
  - E. Complaints are received by phone or fill out a complain form – may be anonymous or names are kept confidential.
  - F. Complaints are prioritized and the goal is to respond to complaints within 24 hours.
  - G. First step in a site visit is to determine the validity of the complaint.
  - H. On environmental issues such as Critical Areas Ordinance or Shoreline the compliance officer will confer with planners to determine validity of compliant.
  - I. If the complaint is valid a letter is sent to the property owners.
  - J. The response to the letter determines the next steps.
  - K. Suggestions to improve the compliance section include:
    - 1) Have a compliance officer with CAO and Shorelines experience.
    - 2) More education to property owners about environmental regulations.
    - 3) Can the county develop public information material for realtors to give to new property owners?

2. Updates:
  - A. TMDL – The WRIR comments are due and public comment period will begin soon.
  - B. Community Shellfish Farm (CSF)
    - 1) May 13th a shellfish workshop will be held.
    - 2) May 21st there will opportunities for volunteers to help plant oysters. There were about 300 kids from Komachin School who will help plant oysters over a 3 week period.
  - C. Thurston Conservation District:
    - 1) There has been two completed Conservation Plans.
    - 2) There are three Conservation Plans in progress – 2 in the Nisqually and 1 in the Henderson watersheds.
    - 3) There will be a pasture management workshop in June.
    - 4) The Thompsen fencing and riparian planting project has been completed. The next project on the farm will be constructing a manure storage facility.
    - 5) A handout describing the Shellfish Pledge project was distributed.
  - D. County land use issues update: Mark provided an update of the various land use activities. See Agenda for an outline of the update.
